Grundrisse

The image displays two architectural floor plans of a building, likely a restaurant or cafe, arranged vertically. The top floor plan is crossed out with a large, thick, grey 'X'. This plan shows a layout with several numbered rooms (2.1 to 2.15), a central service area (Service), a reception area (Reception 12m²), a kitchen (Cuisine 42m²), and three meeting rooms (Réunion 1, 2, 3). The bottom floor plan is not crossed out and shows a similar layout with rooms numbered 2.16 to 2.25, a central service area (Service), a reception area (Reception 12m²), a kitchen (Cuisine 42m²), and three meeting rooms (Réunion 1, 2, 3). The plans include details of furniture, doors, and windows.

Grundrisse

The image displays a detailed architectural floor plan of a restaurant, which is completely obscured by a large, thick grey 'X' drawn across the entire page. The plan itself shows a complex layout with numerous rooms, each labeled with a number and its area in square meters. Key areas include a large kitchen (Cuisine 42m²), a reception area (Reception 12m²), and several dining rooms (e.g., 2.1, 2.2, 2.3, 2.4, 2.5, 2.6, 2.7, 2.8, 2.9, 2.10, 2.11, 2.12, 2.13, 2.14, 2.15). The plan also indicates service areas (Serviceur) and a changing room (Change vestiaire). The overall design suggests a multi-sectioned dining environment.
