A first impression

For sale is a well-maintained two-family house, built in 1962, situated on a spacious plot of approximately 825 m². With a living area of around 226.12 m², this house offers versatile usage options and is ideal for large families or for renting out one floor. Two garages are included. The house features a well-designed layout: there are a total of seven rooms, including five spacious bedrooms that offer ample space for individual needs. Two bathrooms, modernized in 2013, further enhance living comfort. The solid wood parquet flooring creates a pleasant living environment. Several modernization measures have been carried out in recent years to bring the house up to date: in 2002, all windows were replaced with high-quality wood-aluminum windows with thermal insulation glazing. In 2010, comprehensive thermal insulation was installed on the facade, which not only contributes to energy efficiency but also creates a comfortable living environment. In 2017, the roof was replaced and insulated, and two new skylights were installed. These modernization measures guarantee a sound building structure and a well-maintained appearance. The house also has an active fiber optic connection, ensuring a fast and stable internet connection. With its two separate living units, the property offers flexible use. Whether you want to live in the entire house yourself or rent out one of the units, the possibilities are numerous. The layout of the living spaces allows for various living concepts: from family living to a combination of living and working under one roof. The basement contains several storage rooms, the laundry room, the oil tank, and a large, heated hobby room. From the basement, you also have direct access to the garden. The 825 m² plot is spacious, and the surrounding garden offers ample room for relaxing outdoors. You can design the garden according to your personal preferences and create your own individual retreat. Thanks to the mature trees, the garden is not visible from the street.
