All about the location

Via Stresa, located in the northwest area of Milan, is in a quiet but well-connected residential neighborhood between the Bovisa and Dergano districts. The area has a good presence of neighborhood services such as supermarkets, pharmacies, schools, gyms and small businesses, making it suitable for both families and students or young professionals.

On the transportation front, the area is efficiently served by public transport: within a few minutes' walk are the M3 subway stops (yellow line - Dergano stop) and various buses and streetcars that provide quick access to the city center, the Central Station, Bicocca University or the Porta Garibaldi area. Milano Bovisa train station, well connected by suburban trains and Ferrovie Nord, is also nearby.

The location is also strategic for those traveling by car: about 4 km away are the entrances to the main highways and ring roads, making it easier to leave the city. Also nearby are important points of interest such as Niguarda Hospital, the Milan Polytechnic (Bovisa campus) and the renowned Parco Nord, ideal for outdoor activities.

In summary, Via Stresa offers an excellent balance of residential tranquility, urban services, and accessibility.
