All about the location

Santanyí, a charming small town in the southeast of Mallorca, delights visitors with its authentic atmosphere, historic architecture and picturesque old town. The town has around 3,500 inhabitants and is particularly known for its traditional weekly market, the buildings made of golden Marés stone and its lively art scene. Galleries, small boutiques and cozy cafés characterize the townscape and make Santanyí a popular destination for locals and visitors alike.

Just a few kilometers away is the beautiful bay of Cala Llombards, an idyllic stretch of coast with turquoise blue water and a fine sandy beach, framed by steep cliffs and Mediterranean vegetation. The sheltered location ensures a peaceful atmosphere, ideal for swimming and sunbathing. Cala Llombards is not only popular with holidaymakers, but is also a preferred place to live for people who appreciate the tranquillity and beauty of Mallorcan nature.

Worth seeing in the area are the Parc Natural de Mondragó nature reserve with its hiking trails and unspoiled beaches, the historic town gate of Santanyí and the charming fishing port of Cala Figuera, which offers a romantic ambience with its white boathouses and traditional llaüts, the typical Mallorcan fishing boats.

From Santanyí, you can reach Palma in around 50 minutes, while the distance to Son Sant Joan airport is around 45 kilometers. The good connections make the region particularly attractive for those seeking peace and quiet, but who still value quick access to the island's capital.
