A first impression

This detached house from 1930 offers around 99.85 m² of living space on one level and stands on a generous plot of approx. 786 m². With its solid construction and wide range of possible uses, it is ideal for anyone who wants to design the house according to their own ideas.

Access is via the conservatory, which also serves as a bright reception area. From here, two paths lead to the separate living areas of the property. The front area includes a guest room with adjoining guest toilet ideal for visitors or as a private retreat.

If you want to get to the heart of the house, you can do so via a separate entrance in the conservatory, which leads into a spacious entrance hall. This room can be used flexibly as a dining room or additional lounge area. From here, you can access either the bathroom or the open-plan kitchen, which leads directly into a very large living room. The adjoining sleeping area blends in harmoniously and rounds off the well thought-out arrangement of the rooms.

The spacious plot opens up numerous possibilities. Whether as a garden area, play area for children, for planting vegetable patches or for individual hobby projects, there is plenty of space for your personal ideas here. In addition to the garden, the property has a partial basement that offers practical storage space and houses the building services. The offer is complemented by a garage and an additional outdoor parking space.

Various renovation measures have already been carried out in recent years, including replacing the electrics (1997), retrofitting manual roller shutters (1999), extending the living area with a conservatory and redesigning the outdoor area (2007/2008). At the same time, the house still offers many opportunities to adapt the furnishings and design to today's living requirements, from individual modernizations to creative conversion solutions.

This house is aimed at prospective buyers who are looking for a solid foundation with plenty of potential and would like to design a home according to their own ideas. We would be happy to provide you with further information or arrange an individual viewing appointment.
